

1 Rule 14-1116. Conduct of the mediation.

2 (a) Scheduling the mediation. The designated mediator shall set the time and place
3 for the mediation and shall cause written notice of the mediation to be served personally 4 or by mail on all parties to the mediation.

5 (b) Right to be represented by counsel. In the notice of the mediation, the mediator 6 shall inform the parties of their right to be represented by their own legal counsel at their 7 own cost at any stage of the mediation process. Failure to be represented by legal 8 counsel at any stage of the mediation is a waiver of this right at that stage of the 9 mediation, although a party may use legal counsel later in the mediation process.

10 (c) Right to be assisted at mediation. A party may designate an individual to 11 accompany that party to the mediation and to participate with the party in the mediation 12 process.

13 (d) Procedure. The mediator may use joint or private caucuses during the mediation 14 process. The process may be adjourned from time to time in the discretion of the 15 mediator or at the request of the parties.
