

1 Rule 7.5. Firm Names and Letterheads.

2 (a) A lawyer shall not use a firm name, letterhead or other professional designation that violates Rule
3 7.1. A trade name may be used by a lawyer in private practice if it does not imply a connection with a 4 government agency or with a public or charitable legal services organization and is not otherwise in 5 violation of Rule 7.1.

6 (b) A law firm with offices in more than one jurisdiction may use the same name or other professional 7 designation in each jurisdiction, but identification of the lawyers in an office of the firm shall indicate the 8 jurisdictional limitations on those not licensed to practice in the jurisdiction where the office is located.

9 (c) The name of a lawyer holding a public office shall not be used in the name of a law firm, or in 10 communications on its behalf, during any substantial period in which the lawyer is not actively and 11 regularly practicing with the firm.

12 (d) Lawyers may state or imply that they practice in a partnership or other organization only when that 13 is the fact.

14 Comment

15 [1] A firm may be designated by the names of all or some of its members, by the names of deceased
16 or retired members where there has been a continuing succession in the firm's identity or by a trade name
17 such as the "ABC Legal Clinic." A lawyer or law firm may also be designated by a distinctive website
18 address or comparable professional designation. Although the United States Supreme Court has held 19 that legislation may prohibit the use of trade names in professional practice, use of such names in law
20 practice is acceptable so long as it is not misleading. If a private firm uses a trade name that includes a
21 geographical name such as "Springfield Legal Clinic," an express disclaimer that it is not a public legal aid
22 agency may be required to avoid a misleading implication. It may be observed that any firm name 23 including the name of a deceased or retired partner is, strictly speaking, a trade name. The use of such 24 names to designate law firms has proven a useful means of identification. However, it is misleading to 25 use the name of a lawyer who has not been associated with the firm or a predecessor of the firm, or the 26 name of a nonlawyer.

27 [2] With regard to paragraph (d), lawyers sharing office facilities, but who are not in fact associated 28 with each other in a law firm, may not denominate themselves as, for example, "Smith and Jones," for 29 that title suggests that they are practicing law together in a firm.
