11:15 AM – 12:00 PM

Indigent Defense Commission & Parent Representation Pilot in the 4th Judicial District

Jojo Liu, Assistant Director, Indigent Defense Commission

Sheryl St. Clair

The focus of this session is on the Utah Indigent Defense Commission and its Parent Representation Pilot in the 4th Judicial District. The pilot project will help close the gap between representation in court and the need for parents to have support at other important points in a child welfare case, such as family team meetings and mediation. The pilot project will fund a social worker to work with the parent and the parental defense attorney as well as work collaboratively with the DCFS caseworker in assisting the parent in accessing social services/treatment and coming into compliance with DCFS services plans.

Family Dependency Drug Court: Improving Outcomes for Families with Substance Use Disorders

Melissa Sanchez, Specialty Courts Program Coordinator, 3rd District Juvenile Court; Moderator

Jennifer H., FDDC Graduate

Jamie S., FDDC Graduate

Evan F., FDDC Graduate

Jana Alston, Clinical Director, Odyssey House Parent's with Children Program

George Rivera, Court Liaison/Case Manager, First Step House

Kristine Paul, Admissions Coordinator, House of Hope

In this session, a panel of three graduates from Family Dependency Drug Court, along with each of the recovery programs (House of Hope, First Step House, and Odyssey House) in which they participated in while in FDDC will discuss how FDDC works as well and provide an overview of the different recovery programs. The panelists will discuss their own journey to recovery and focus on how FDDC helped them overcome their substance use disorders.

2:30 PM - 3:30 PM

Belief Systems in Recovery

Chris Clayton, CHMC

This session will focus on belief systems in recovery and why it is necessary to evaluate substance use disorder as a whole health issue. It is not just substances that need to be addressed when dealing with substance use disorder. An individual's long-established belief system needs to be explored, once the drugs and alcohol have been removed, and this is where the work truly begins.

Child Welfare: The Road to Family First Prevention Services Act

JooYeun Chang, J.D., Managing Director of Knowledge Management, Casey Family Programs

In February 2018, a landmark piece of federal legislation was passed — the Family First Prevention Services Act. Family First expanded the only entitlement in child welfare, historically referred to as the “foster care entitlement,” for certain time-limited preventive services for families of children who would otherwise have been removed into foster care. This legislation reflects an evolving understanding that federal investments should prioritize safely preventing foster care placements as well as helping to pay for foster care when it is necessary. This session will discuss the history of federal child welfare law, ultimately leading up to the passage of the Family First Prevention Services Act and highlight key provisions of the Act.

10:30 AM – 12:00 PM

Resiliency 101: From Victim to Survivor

Julie Brand, M.S., CAPER Consulting

Some victims of childhood abuse perpetuate the cycle of violence; yet others grow to be safe, nurturing adults. Some choose to become the rescuers and healers—social workers, victim advocates, therapists, physicians and police officers. Why do some victims lose decades of their lives to drug addiction and other self-destructive behaviors while others turn out to be healthy, stable, well-functioning adults? How can we influence which path they will follow?

This dynamic, upbeat program identifies seven key steps that can help victims to overcome trauma and to develop a "survivor's perspective." Attendees will learn how to use the "language of resiliency" to identify and to reinforce victims' strengths thereby positively impacting both their self-perceptions and their life scripts. Participants will learn how to foster resiliency in their clients' lives and also in their own.

The presenter is both an experienced counselor and a resilient survivor of maternal sexual abuse.

Fantine and the Damned: Ethics and Parental Defense

Travis R. Marker, J.D., L.L.M., Marker Law & Mediation

In the setting of the Juvenile Court, the child takes center stage and has the most advocates. The Guardian ad Litem represents the child through the eyes of the child. The state works for the family and the state's interest reviewing evidence and the future of the case from the best interest of the child. The Judge works to provide the best outcome through the family while preserving the best interest of the child. The parental defender is the one advocate working through the eyes of the parent to provide the counter balance to the process, although they must also work through the evidence and case as presented through the eyes of the child. It is one of the most difficult areas of representation in the law.

This program will look at child welfare and parental representation through the eyes of Victor Hugo's tragic and heroic mother Fantine from his classic Les Miserables. The attendees will review elements from the Preamble to the Model Rules, and specific rules 8.4(d), 1.4, 1.2, 2.1 and others to consider the ethical duties of all lawyers in the process as well as the parental defenders in representing parties in the juvenile court.

PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES:

Jana Alston

Clinical Director
Odyssey House's Parents with Children Program

Jana Alston is the Clinical Director at Odyssey House's Parents with Children Program and oversees clinical services. She has been working at Odyssey House for 7 years and represents the program on Judge Hornak and Judge Jimenez's FDDC teams. The Odyssey House's Parents with Children Program serves parents with a substance use disorder in residential treatment who are reunifying and/or building healthy relationships with their children. The program meets the needs of adults with a substance use disorder as well as children who have suffered attachment injuries. The Parents with Children Program has 16 beds in the women's house and 6 in the men's house. Odyssey House is the only provider in the Salt Lake Valley that offers father's the opportunity to reunify in residential treatment.

Ricky Ballesteros

Former Foster Youth

Ricky spent 3 years in Utah's foster care system. At the age of 16, Ricky was placed into state's custody due to his parents involvement with drugs. Although he spent three years in foster care, he was fortunate to have been placed in a loving home. With the help of supportive foster parents, and a great transition team, he was able to successfully navigate through Utah's foster care system. After graduating from high school Ricky enlisted in the Utah Army National Guard, where he has served for 8 years. Shortly after completing his basic military training, he took two years off to volunteer as a service missionary for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Since his release from care Ricky has strived to be an advocate for youth in foster care. As a part of his volunteer work Ricky has served as the chair of Utah's Northern Youth Council, was a member of the State Youth Council, (both are youth led councils focused on improving Utah's foster care system) and currently serves on the Board of Directors for Utah's First Star Academy.

Julie Brand, M.S.

CAPER Consulting

Julie Brand holds a Master's degree in Counseling and enjoyed a distinguished 25-year career as a school counselor. Now she uses her unique perspective as both a counselor and a survivor, to speak out about females who sexually abuse children. In 2006, she launched CAPER Consulting: Child Abuse Prevention, Education and Recovery. Since 2006, she has educated and enlightened audiences across the United States with her dynamic programs on mother-daughter sexual abuse, female offenders in positions of trust, male survivors and recovery from childhood trauma.

She authored A Mother's Touch: Surviving Mother-Daughter Sexual Abuse (2007), participated in a Canadian documentary on maternal incest (2013) and has testified as an expert witness in district court (2017). Julie's upbeat presentations focus on the power of resiliency and healing in all of our lives.

JooYeun Chang, J.D.
Managing Director of
Knowledge Management
Casey Family Programs

JooYeun Chang is Managing Director of Knowledge Management at Casey Family Programs. She returns to Casey after serving as Associate Commissioner of the Children's Bureau from 2013-2015. At the Bureau Ms. Chang administered over $7 billion in Federal Programming to support the Nation's child protection, Foster care, Guardianship and Adoption programs.

Prior to her appointment to the Children's Bureau, Ms. Chang was the Senior Director of Public Policy at Casey Family Programs where she worked closely with state and county child welfare leaders to improve and enhance child welfare practice and with Congress on opportunities to improve national child welfare policy. Prior to Casey Family Programs, JooYeun served as Senior Staff Attorney for the Children's Defense Fund (CDF). Her areas of expertise in federal and state policy include child abuse and neglect, foster care and adoption, children's mental health, child welfare financing, and kinship care. She has authored several publications; worked to educate congressional staff about child welfare policies designed to protect children and support families; and identified and promoted best practices in child welfare and related issues.

PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES:

Chris Clayton, CMHC

Hi...My name is...you see traditionally this would be filled in, made up, exaggerated, or emphasized with form, for everyone to know who I am. The name provided to me is Chris Clayton and, no, I am not that far removed that I don't use this name; however, this is a function of form to provide identity that begins at birth. I also am...a husband, father, son, brother, person, and in the culture of recovery—an alcoholic/addict. The last two don't sound too rewarding, positive, or ultimately held with esteem in the societal culture we make up, yet this is the way of introducing oneself—as if to say, watch out because I will lie, cheat and steal from you as I am such a terrible person. Needless to say, there is attached a rooted infrastructure of what addiction is and is not. I hope to impart with you, not some evidenced-based curriculum that is the new cat's meow and the way to treat addiction, but a look into my personal life and the struggles, rewards, and belief systems that have needed to be revamped, changed all together, made new, discarded, or put to the side while I experience life to make an informed decision. Patience/reactivity, willingness/closed-off, struggle/flow, sorrow/joy, good/bad—this is recovery, not some make-believe world where Disney has a cast of characters enter your life...or is it!

Tami DeCoteau, Ph.D.

Licensed Clinical Psychologist
DeCoteau Trauma-Informed
Care & Practice

Dr. DeCoteau obtained a doctorate degree in Clinical Psychology in 2003 from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln with specialization in the cognitive-behavioral treatment of anxiety disorders for adults, adolescents, and children. Dr. DeCoteau is a Trust-Based Relational Intervention (TBRI) practitioner. TBRI is a therapeutic model that trains caregivers to provide effective support for at-risk children. She is also trained in various other trauma treatment modalities including EMDR, somatic processing, attachment intervention, NMT (neurosequential model of therapeutics), and TF-CBT. Dr. DeCoteau has extensive experience working with patients who suffer from complex trauma, neurodevelopmental disorders, grief, anxiety, depression, and suicidal thinking. In 2016, Dr. Decoteau received the Reducing Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Juvenile Justice Certificate from Georgetown University.

Dr. DeCoteau has worked in a variety of outpatient settings and with a diverse patient population, including Veterans and Native Americans. She received the Indian Health Service 2009 Health Professional of the Year Award for outstanding service and the American Psychological Foundation 2010 Early Career Award for providing culturally competent practice techniques for Native Americans and for developing training programs in rural, underserved areas. Dr. DeCoteau was appointed by a member of the U.S. Congress to serve the Commission on Native Children to help address the challenges faced by Native children.

Aside from clinical work, Dr. DeCoteau has given numerous lectures on how trauma impacts attachment and brain development, in-school strategies for working with traumatized children, and historical trauma. She is a long-standing member of the American Psychological Association, an enrolled member of the Mandan, Hidatsa, Arikara Nation and a descendant of the Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa.

PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES:

Honorable Elizabeth Knight
Juvenile Court Judge
Third Judicial District

Judge Elizabeth M. Knight was appointed to the Third District Juvenile Court in August of 2015 by Governor Gary R. Herbert. Judge Knight serves in Salt Lake, Summit and Tooele Counties. Judge Knight graduated in 1989 from the University of Utah with a Bachelor's of Science degree in Elementary Education, and taught first grade in Compton, California for one year. Judge Knight then received a Juris Doctorate degree from the University of Utah College of Law in 1993. After graduating from law school, Judge Knight was employed as a Guardian ad Litem from 1993 until 2002. Judge Knight then returned to the University of Utah where she graduated with a Master's degree in Leadership and Policy in 2003. Following a brief stint teaching sixth grade, Judge Knight was employed by the Department of Human Services as an Administrative Law Judge from 2003 until 2013, and then as the Director of the Office of Guardian ad Litem from 2013 until her appointment to the bench. Judge Knight currently serves on the State Children's Justice Center Board and the Language Access Committee.

Jojo Liu
Assistant Director
Indigent Defense Commission

Jojo Liu is the Assistant Director of the Utah Indigent Defense Commission where she oversees the juvenile court aspects of the IDC's mandate. Previously a visiting professor at the S.J. Quinney College of Law, Ms. Liu also spent a decade, as the Clinical Director at the Center for Juvenile Law and Policy at Loyola Law School in Los Angeles, where she defended children and worked on system improvement initiatives in the nation's largest juvenile justice system.

Travis R. Marker, J.D.,
Marker Law & Mediation

Travis Marker is a pro-tem judge, attorney, mediator, and social entrepreneur. He graduated from Weber State University with a B.S. in English and History. He received his J.D. from Willamette University College of Law in 2003 and his L.L.M. from Bond University School of Law in 2004.

His primary genre in the practice of law is "domestic." He provides services to nearly every area of law that affects families including divorce, custody, adoptions, grandparent rights, termination of parental rights, child welfare and juvenile delinquency, couple mediations, family conflict resolution, child support, parent time and visitation conflicts, and other families matters. Litigation is the traditional and primary means of conflict resolution for many people. Mr. Marker, as a mediator and litigator, highly recommends mediation for most parties and families. Many disputes are about the breach in the relationship of the parties. Mediation is about facilitating a productive conversation to remedy that breach. It generally saves the parties money as well in contrast to the preparation and time for trial.

Mr. Marker enjoyed his youth in Ogden, Utah, living near the mouth of Ogden Canyon and the mountains above Ben Lomond High School. He is a proud Scot and enjoys serving the Ben Lomond, Ogden City, and Weber County communities through his law office. He established his office at the historic Five Points area of Ogden - the first economic hub of Weber County at the time of Fort Bingham. Mr. Marker actively works with non-profit groups, organizations, businesses and churches to address social concerns in this area.

Nicole Lowe McBride
Parental Defense Attorney

Nicole Lowe McBride was a DCFS Child Abuse Investigator for three years before law school. She served as an Assistant Attorney General in Child Protection Division for ten years in Third District until last week when she began working as Parental Defense Attorney in Second District. In 2014, she began building the Homeless Youth Legal Clinic, which provides free legal services to homeless youth in Salt Lake County. Nicole also helped in the creation of the Transitional Youth Court with Judge Elizabeth Knight. Nicole spent three years living on the streets of Salt Lake City before giving birth of her first son when she was seventeen. Her experiences as a homeless youth have guided her professional and personal goals and achievements.

Honorable Jeffrey J. Noland
Juvenile Court Judge
Second Judicial District

Judge Jeffrey J. Noland was appointed to the Second District Juvenile Court by Gov. Gary R. Herbert in July 2010. He serves Davis, Morgan, and Weber counties. Judge Noland has a law degree from the University of Utah College of Law. Prior to his appointment to the bench, Judge Noland served as a managing attorney for the Salt Lake Office of the Guardian ad Litem (GAL). Before joining the GAL in 2006, Judge Noland worked in private practice. Judge Noland currently serves as the Chair of the Court Improvement Program where he provides leadership in improving outcomes for older youth in foster care as well as developing strong Tribal-State Court relationships.
