At the hearing the court will decide whether to appoint a conservator, who the conservator will be, and what authority the conservator will have. The respondent has the following rights:

- the right to attend the hearing;
- the right to choose his or her own attorney;

- the right to nominate a conservator;
- the right to limit the conservator’s authority to that needed for protection;
- the right to receive written reasons for appointing a conservator;
- the right to request that the hearing be open or closed to the public;
- the right to present evidence;
- the right to ask questions of witnesses;
- the right to be examined by a court-appointed physician;
- the right to be interviewed by a court-appointed visitor and to ask that the visitor interview the proposed conservator;

The respondent and any person interested in the respondent have the right to ask the court for a hearing to end the conservatorship, to appoint a different conservator, or to change the conservator’s authority.

If a conservator is appointed, the conservator will make decisions about the respondent’s property.
